The East Carolina University ACM Student Chapter strives to provide a community whereby those with a common interest in computing are encouraged to work together and learn from each other while preparing for careers as computer professionals.